

Dreamy denim from La Bagatelle.

Another layer is added to the world of La Bagatelle. A chapter about denim: the perfect pair of jeans made in Japan in Japanese Selvedge. La Bagatelle has from the beginning set out to be a collection of items a considerate wardrobe should be composed of. And denim is the new dream chapter.

Malene Malling: "Since the beginning I've dreamt of doing the perfect pair of denims for La Bagatelle. The kind that only gets better with wear, the kind that make you feel strong as well as hot."

The La Bagatelle Lot #1 Jeans are made in a Selvedge Denim that fades beautifully and feels sturdy yet soft becoming almost like second skin.

Malene Malling: "I love getting dressed up. However, as much as I delight in precious textiles in stunning colours, I also like to go for long walks, to garden, to be hands on – in other words: to live. And jeans represent that part of my life. One that is for a slower pace, one in which I can feel my heart beat. One in which I am off."

During CPHFW La Bagatelle will present an extensive collection of items to go with the story of the La Bagatelle Lot #1 denims. All made in extraordinary textiles as well as a number of One of a Kind pieces. They all support the La Bagatelle philosophy of a slower and more considerate pace honouring craft: that of thoughtful tailoring as well as the art of creating breathtakingly beautiful textiles.
